
For far too long, large and multi-national corporations have found ways to avoid paying their fair share of taxes in Illinois. Individuals and small and medium sized businesses have paid the price.

That's why Governor Blagojevich proposed an overhaul of Illinois' tax system that will help you provide healthcare for your employees and adequately fund schools. It will accomplish this by finally collecting taxes from large corporations that have avoided paying their fair share.

Under the Governor's tax fairness plan, businesses with under $1 million in revenues will see little or no change in their taxes. This means that 75% of all businesses in Illinois are exempt.
